VEDIC VILLAGE RETREAT

There is a growing paradox in the way people want to live today.

We seek community,
yet value independence.

We want stillness,
yet resist slowing down.

We long for nature,
yet remain deeply embedded in modern rhythms.

It is within this tension that Vedic Village,

A boutique hospitality brand owned by the Sabari Group, has shaped its philosophy.

The group's foundation is rooted in the vision of its Founder and Chairman, Mr. Shashi Kumar Nair, who, despite the group's expansive growth, remains at heart a simple village man.

It is his innate understanding of that grounded, communal spirit that informs the brand's direction.

Rather than presenting itself
only as a destination,

Vedic Village Retreat positions itself as an environment designed to influence how people feel, think, and connect.

Drawing inspiration from the emotional memory of village life, the brand reinterprets its essence for contemporary living.

Everybody wants a village

Not everyone wants to be a villager.

FOUNDER'S NOTE

My journey began in a small village in Palakkad, where life was simple and hospitality was never something you had to ask for. I left home young, carrying those memories with me.

In 1988, I began what would become the Sabari Group – starting with a simple wish to provide for my family. That wish has grown into something larger: a family of more than 3,500 people who now work alongside me.

With growth came a responsibility to look beyond our own walls. Through the Sabari Charitable Trust, we've tried to give back in the ways that matter most – helping almost 9,000 children stay in school, caring for children who need extra support through Faith India, and standing by elderly members of our community with a pension each month.

Vedic Village is a return to something I have carried with me all these years. Every retreat we build is created by the same value, in conversation with its habitat and the geography – not merely constructed – so that the same warmth I grew up with is felt in every space we make.

For me, that is what a village has always meant: a place where there is room for everyone

VIBE VILLAGE

OUR VISION

To architect spaces that can quietly support clarity, conversation, creativity,
and rest without forcing any one way of being.

With intimate properties
across South India,

Each location remains intentionally small in scale to preserve a sense of belonging and personal connection.

Architecture across locations remains open and grounded,
encouraging interactions
with landscape, light, and community.

The brand reflects a broader shift in how people define well-being.

A sense of belonging,
Familiarity,
Space to be oneself.

The freedom to simply be.

Because while not everyone may choose to live in a village, many recognise the quiet value of what the village represents.

This Is The Way Of Living We Hold Sacred.

QUIET, MEANINGFUL, COMPLETE

The Island of Mirrored Horizons

ALLEPPEY, KERALA

VEDIC VILLAGE // ALLEPPEY

Alleppey is a historical port city where human effort and the sea coexist beautifully.

Once a bustling hub for spice and timber trade, its hand carved canals navigate a landscape nearly two meters below sea level.

Vedic Village Retreat Alleppey, rests on a private island surrounded by the river on one side and paddy fields on the other. The retreat unfolds across an expansive stretch of land, leaving room for water, groves, and the landscape around it.

A private boat from Pallathuruthy lifts you from mainland noise into the tranquil setting of the 32-key retreat, with groves and backwater life just beyond your door. One can experience the region's enduring relationship with its environment, revealing how Alleppey remains resilient and harmonious over time.

LIVING SPACES // ALLEPPEY

Spaces shaped by water, fields, and sky.

PADDY FIELD VIEW

The paddy fields stretch into view, shifting with the seasons— from lush green expanses to waterlogged fields as part of the cultivation cycle, all beneath the morning light.

A writing table kept simply for thought, reading, or a quiet hour of work.

A DAY AT ALLEPPEY

A day begins quietly. With a walk through paddy fields, the earth cool beneath your feet.

LIFE HERE MOVES WITHOUT URGENCY,

LEAVING SPACE TO JUST BE.

Village paths open into small encounters - a nod from a local, fishermen working their nets, narrow canals reflecting palms and sky.

As the hours pass, the backwaters draw you in. A gentle paddle, birds gliding low, the landscape unfolding at its own pace.

By evening, the sky stretches wide, settling into soft colours over the fields.

Or you may choose stillness instead
Sitting in silence,
Reading,
Meditating,
Doing nothing at all.

At Alleppey, every day finds its own rhythm, and you find your place within it.

HOW TO REACH

Vedic Village Retreat, Alleppey feels a world apart, while remaining within easy reach.

Cochin International Airport at 95 km, connects the backwaters seamlessly to the rest of India and the world.

Alappuzha Railway Station lies at 10 km from the retreat.

Cochin by Road is just a 65 km drive

The journey truly begins at the jetty.

Leaving the noise of the road behind, guests arrive by a 15-minute boat ride, gliding gently across the water toward the retreat.

It is in this quiet passage that the pace begins to change.

The mind slows, the landscape opens, and the experience unfolds even before you arrive.

The Gateway of Arrivals
KODUNGALLUR, KERALA

VEDIC VILLAGE // KODUNGALLUR

Kodungallur, with its historic roads and rivers, has a rich legacy of welcoming diverse cultures and ideas, stemming from its past as the ancient port town of Muziris.

Vedic Village Retreat, Kodungallur is set on VP Thuruth, an island in the Thrissur district of Kerala where the arms of the Periyar river meet the delta. Intimate in scale, the retreat sits quietly within its village surroundings.

The 16-key retreat offers an invitation to explore this region of exchange, where the history of Muziris is conserved through the UNESCO-supported Muziris Heritage Project, and visitors contribute their own stories to its ongoing narrative.

A DAY AT KODUNGALLUR

THE DAY OFFERS DIFFERENT WAYS TO UNFOLD

A quiet boat ride on the lake,

Walks along the beach with the sea in view,

Or time spent exploring the town, its historic streets, synagogues, mosques, temples, and churches.

As evening falls, the village paths catch the last light, easing the day into the quiet of night.

HOW TO REACH

Vedic Village Retreat, Kodungallur is well connected, with a quieter pace once you arrive.

Cochin International Airport at 40 km, offering smooth connections to the rest of India and the world.

Aluva at 26 km and Ernakulam at 36 km railway stations lie within comfortable driving distance, Kodungallur town is just a short drive from the retreat.

THE JOURNEY
UNFOLDS GRADUALLY.

Well connected to NH 66, the route soon leads into smaller village roads.

The surroundings begin to change as traffic thins, greenery gathers, and water appears at the edges of the landscape.

By the time you arrive, the village has already begun to reveal itself. The pace feels different here, with water, greenery, and everyday life close at hand.

VEDIC VILLAGE // SRIPERUMBUDUR

The spirit of Sriperumbudur is one of unbroken purpose.

A temple town for nine centuries and a manufacturing hub for generations, it has never asked one identity to make way for the other.

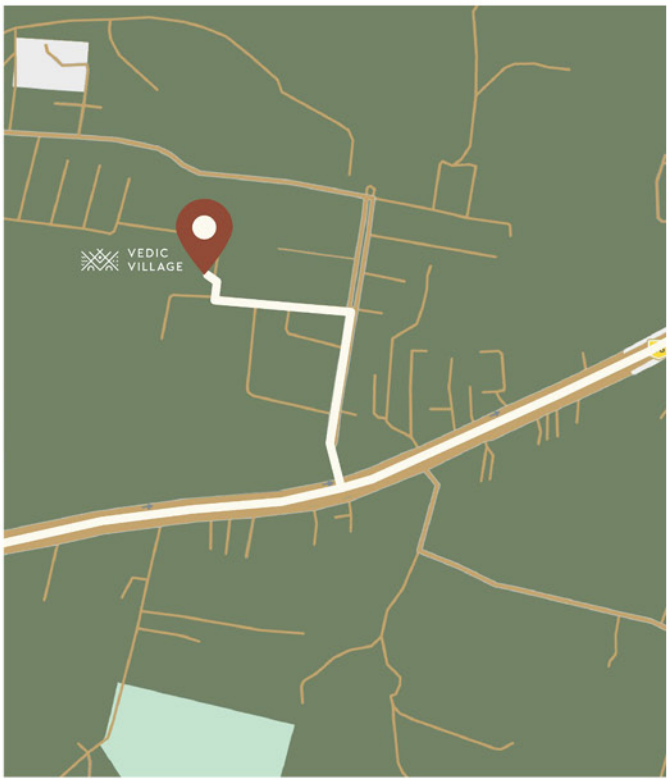

Here, the gopuram and the industrial corridor belong to the same landscape, where the rhythms of worship and work continue side by side.

Vedic Village Retreat Sriperumbudur unfolds across open grounds, a 32-key retreat with space to step away from the movement of the town.

HOW TO REACH

Vedic Village Retreat, Sriperumbudur offers a quieter setting, while staying close to the town and its industrial corridor.

Chennai International Airport at 48 km connecting the corridor to the rest of India and the world in about 90 minutes.

Arakkonam Railway Station at 48 km is the nearest station, with Chennai Central (55 km) also within easy reach Sriperumbudur Industrial SIPCOT is just 16 km — a 15-minute drive that makes the retreat the natural stay for business travelers working the corridor.

Beyond the industrial corridor, the temple town of Kanchipuram lies 25 km away, around 30 minutes by road.

The coast offers another direction for the day.

'Marina Beach' is 60 km away, approximately 90 minutes by road, while 'Mahabalipuram' lies 130 km away, around two hours from the retreat.

Each offers a different way to spend the hours beyond Sriperumbudur.

Gathering Spaces

VEDIC VILLAGE RETREAT

SARVAM ALL DAY DINING

Adapting to its landscape, Sarvam honors its surroundings through local flavors.

In Alleppey, enjoy restorative meals bridging the lagoon and paddy fields,

In Kodungallur, the menu and nautical design celebrate its legacy as an ancient, global crossroads.

In Sriperumbudur, familiar regional flavours meet a more contemporary rhythm, shaped by the town's movement between tradition and industry.

Available in Alleppey,
Kodungallur &
Sriperumbudur

SUKHAM
SPA & WELLNESS

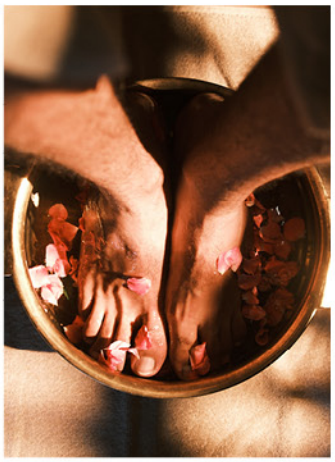

Sukham is the simple feeling of ease.

While we sit in a land of ancient healing, we believe well-being is a personal choice rather than a rigid pursuit.

Surrounded by the palms and the lake breeze, you can choose the path that resonates with your own body.

Whether it is a traditional Ayurvedic therapy or a simple, rhythmic massage to ease the tension of the city, each experience unfolds at an unhurried pace.

It is an invitation to let go, breathe, and return to a natural state of fluidity.

Available in Alleppey
& Kodungallur

JALAM RESTROBAR

Jalam means water.
Flowing, inviting, ever moving.

At Vedic Jalam, evenings unfold slowly in the spirit of togetherness.

Crafted cocktails carry subtle local notes, conversations linger under soft light, and music drifts gently through the space.

Casual yet elegant, the restrobar becomes a place to gather, share, and unwind.

A quiet celebration of connection, where moments are savoured and time is allowed to move at its own pace.

Available only in Alleppey

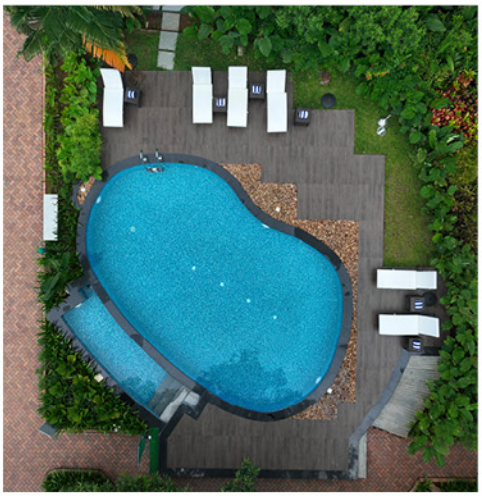

POOL

Embodying the fluidity of their surroundings, our minimalist pools act as tranquil thresholds.

Whether set against Alleppey's paddy fields, suspended above Kodungallur's river, or surrounded by coconut trees in Sriperumbudur, they offer spaces of absolute stillness, and a quiet break from the day.

Available in Alleppey, Kodungallur &
Sriperumbudur

BHUMI
LAWN

Bhumi is our central courtyard and shared earth, designed for absolute freedom and connection.

Whether stargazing, walking barefoot on dewy grass, or enjoying morning stretches, these lush lawns are where the community breathes together under the open sky.

Ideal for intimate weddings, family reunions, and festive gatherings, offering a vast, open-air courtyard to celebrate together under the sky.

Available in both
Alleppey & Kodungallur

Full capacities by property —
see Gathering Spaces - Events, pg. 52.

TAMARA
LAKE PAVILION

A floating pavilion set over the lotus pond, Tamara holds the paddy fields and the sky within the same frame.

Still water below, shifting light above, the space lends itself to an intimate dinner, a quiet toast, a small private gathering, or a morning yoga practice above the water.

Available only in Alleppey

DARBAR

CONVENTION SPACES

Darbar is a space for gathering that refuses to feel closed in.

Even when used for conferences or meetings, the room remains tethered to the natural world.

Large and airy, it overlooks the paddy fields, allowing the mind to wander as far as the eye can see.

Spanning 1,295 sq ft, the space can be arranged to suit different styles of gathering.

We believe that clarity comes from perspective; here, the most complex thoughts find their resolution against the backdrop of an open horizon.

Full specifications —
see Gathering Spaces - Events, pg. 52.

Available only in Alleppey

SUBINA

DINING WITH VEDIC VILLAGE

Across Alleppey, Kodungallur, and Sriperumbudur, dining takes its cues from the places around us.

At Sarvam, local ingredients and familiar flavours sit alongside dishes from further afield. Breakfasts unfold at an easy pace, lunches follow the rhythm of the day, and evenings bring people back to the table.

In Alleppey, meals draw from the waters and paddy fields around the retreat.

In Kodungallur, the region's long history of trade and exchange finds its way into the table and the flavours that surround it.

In Sriperumbudur, regional Tamil flavours meet a menu shaped for both familiar tastes and travelers passing through.

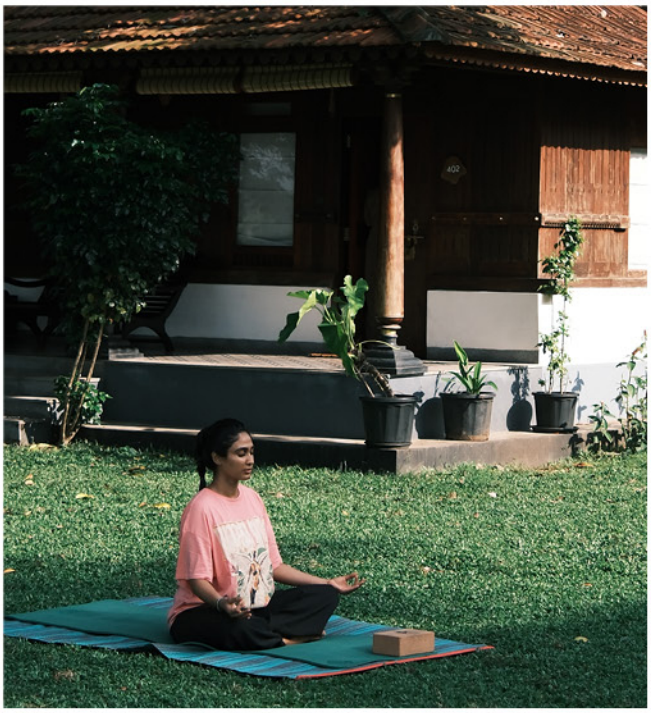

Kerala's culinary traditions remain an important part of the experience, from recipes rooted in the region to a traditional Sadhya served as a shared meal.

There is room, too, for food from beyond the region. Mediterranean dishes, Asian influences, fresh coastal seafood, and familiar classics sit alongside local cooking, allowing each guest to eat according to their own appetite and preference.

Whatever brings you to the table, there is something worth staying

WELLNESS AT VEDIC VILLAGE

ONE INTENT, TWO PATHS

Across our Kerala retreats, wellbeing takes two distinct approaches.

In Kodungallur, programmes draw from Ayurveda, Siddha medicine, yoga, and naturopathy, traditions that consider the individual as a whole and seek to understand the sources of imbalance.

In Alleppey, the focus turns towards longevity and preventive health through movement, recovery, and evidence-informed practices that support long-term vitality.

The approaches differ, but the intention remains the same: to help you feel at ease in your body, clear in your mind, and more capable of living well.

VEDIC VILLAGE // BENGALURU

COMING SOON...

Vedic Village's Bengaluru property is planned near Ramanagara in Karnataka, about 50 km south-west of Bengaluru along the Bengaluru–Mysore Expressway.

Known for its granite hills and rugged landscapes, Ramanagara has served as a film location for 'Sholay' and 'A Passage to India'. Sericulture and silk weaving continue to shape much of the region's local economy.

The surrounding landscape invites exploration, from rock climbing and birdwatching to visits to Ramadevara Betta, a hill with deep local religious significance.

Janapada Loka offers a window into Karnataka's folk traditions, while Channapatna's wooden-toy craft, Kanva Reservoir, and Mekedaatu, where the Arkavathi meets the Kaveri.

VEDIC VILLAGE // KOCHI

COMING SOON...

Vedic Village's Kochi property is planned on Willingdon Island, India's largest man-made island, created in 1936 by dredging the channels of Kochi's backwaters and connected to the mainland by the Venduruthy Bridge.

Ernakulam Junction and Kochi's international airport are both a short drive away, and the setting continues a story Vedic Village already knows – a retreat set apart on water, in the company of the Kochi Naval Base and the historic Port of Kochi.

Just across the bridge lies Old Kochi – Fort Kochi and Mattancherry – where colonial-era streets still carry the rhythm of a centuries-old spice trade.

The Chinese fishing nets along the shore, the antique lanes of Jew Town, the 16th-century Paradesi Synagogue, and the Dutch Palace all sit within easy reach – alongside Kerala's oldest church, still standing since 1503.
